MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Policy & Plans Group

SUBJECT : Sources and Methods Listing -
Information Systems Security Group

Though I have discussed with you what constitutes "sources and methods", I am not at all comfortable that I have a good grasp of what should and should not be included in subject listing. As a consequence, I submit the following items for your consideration:

1. The Security Audit Trail of the OJCS Interactive System;

2. Security Analysis, Test, and Evaluation of Systems - the methods and results;

3. Security Approval procedures and criteria for remote terminal installations;

4. The fact of briefing and the briefing of foreign intelligence organizations on computer security;

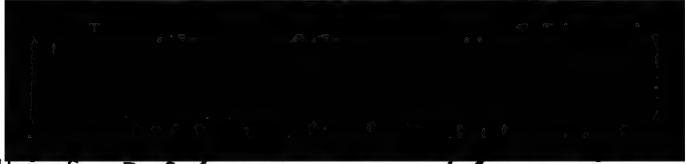

5. Top Secret document control procedures;

6. Certain computer security policies and procedures (internal and Community).

Which ones?

revealing of something sensitive.

As was mentioned at a recent weekly staff meeting, the OGC has been assigned a task of developing a listing of the several aspects of Agency activities that constitute intelligence sources and methods. The attachment outlines the approach being taken. STATINTL

Mr. [REDACTED] of OGC will attend this week's staff meeting (20 February) to briefly discuss the project and answer any questions.

The attachment solicits individual Offices to submit through the DD/A their first draft of such listings covering their own activities by 21 February. Although this date is considered unrealistic, the Office of Security submission is expected to reach the DD/A very soon thereafter.

Individual OS components are requested to make their submissions to the Policy and Plans Group by the close of business 25 February. PPG will consolidate the Office submission.
